

Unit Effectiveness Inspection (UEI) Capstone 3-12 Sep

Team McChord,

It has been an amazing summer here in the Pacific Northwest full of some incredible weather and some incredible accomplishments! Now as we get ready to head into fall, it's important we keep the momentum going strong. With an anticipated increase in our operations tempo, we're sure to be busy over the next couple of months. So, I encourage you to take advantage of some much-deserved time off this Labor Day weekend to spend with family and friends, re-charge and return ready to deliver precision global airlift! For those of you who will be out Executing the Mission over the holiday weekend, I offer my sincerest thanks for the sacrifices that you and your families make. Additionally, as kids head back to school next week and we round out the Critical Days of Summer, please remember to think safety first. You are our Air Force's most valuable resource; continue to protect yourselves and each other!
